Industry : Roger Ebert 19864 : Film criticism is the analysis and evaluation of films. In general, these works can be divided into two categories: academic criticism by film scholars and journalistic film criticism that appears regularly in newspapers and other media. Film critics working for newspapers, magazines, and broadcast media mainly review new releases. Normally they only see any given film once and have only a day or two to formulate their opinions. Despite this, critics have an important impact on the audience response and attendance at films, especially those of certain genres. Mass marketed action, horror, and comedy films tend not to be greatly affected by a critics overall judgment of a film. The plot summary and description of a film and the assessment of the directors and screenwriters work that makes up the majority of most film reviews can still have an important impact on whether people decide to see a film. For prestige films such as most dramas and art films, the influence of reviews is important. Poor reviews from leading critics at major papers and magazines will often reduce audience interest and attendance.

Percentage box office losses outside of mainland China for January to March 3, 2020, are 70–75% in Italy, 60% in South Korea, 35% in Hong Kong, the Philippines, and Singapore, and 30% in Taiwan.<sup>18</sup> The Los Angeles box office, a key movie market and local economic backbone, was projected to fall by 20% in April 2020 compared to its 2019 figures, based on the state of emergency declared in the county at the start of March 2020.<sup>18</sup> Despite the state of emergency, as single screens within movie theatres do not hold more than 1,000 people, they were granted an exemption from the ban on mass public gatherings in California. A National Association of Theatre Owners representative for California and Nevada announced that theatres would stay open historically, movie theatres have remained open during other similar emergencies.<sup>19</sup> However, a survey of Americans over the opening March weekend showed support for closing movie theaters.<sup>9</sup> On March 15, Deadline reported that over 100 movie theaters in the US had closed, some due to local rulings and others because of an inability to keep them open with no demand<sup>3</sup> on March 17, with national restrictions to social gatherings, cinemas across the United States closed.<sup>12</sup> However, drive-in theaters, where customers stay in their own cars, were not closed, and quickly grew in popularity again.<sup>20</sup>

Early home media releases The 2019 film Frozen II was originally planned to be released on Disney+ on June 26, 2020, before it was moved up to March 15. Disney CEO Bob Chapek explained that this was because of the film's powerful themes of perseverance and the importance of family, messages that are incredibly relevant.<sup>135</sup><sup>136</sup> On March 16, 2020, Universal announced that The Invisible Man, The Hunt, and Emma - all films in theaters at the time - would be available through premium video on demand as early as March 20 at a suggested price of US$.99 each.<sup>137</sup> After suffering poor box office since its release at the start of March, Onward was made available to purchase digitally on March 21, and was added to Disney+ on April 3.<sup>138</sup> Paramount announced on March 20, Sonic the Hedgehog is also planning to have an early release to video on demand, on March 31.<sup>139</sup><sup>140</sup> On March 16, Warner Bros. announced that Birds of Prey would be released early to video on demand on March 24.<sup>141</sup> Three days later, the studio then announced that The Way Back would also be available on video on demand the same date as Birds of Prey.<sup>142</sup> On April 3, Disney announced that Artemis Fowl, a film adaptation of the 2001 novel of the same name, would be released straight to Disney+ on June 12, skipping a theatrical release entirely.<sup>143</sup><sup>144</sup>
